RED CROSS IN SCHOOLS.

Children in This District Have Raised Over $1600.

In the Potsdam Branch of the American Red Cross there are 132 schools. Out of that number 92 have been reported as 100 per cent Junior Red Cross. There are 2920 pupils enrolled and they have raised nearly all since March 1, 1918, $147,86.

These boys and girls have been doing various kinds of Red Cross work under supervision of the nearest Red Cross Auxiliary. They have been making surgical dressings, and knitting sweaters, wristlets, socks, wash cloths, and ambulance robes, making bandages, comfort pillows, garments and gun wipers. In some neighborhoods the seniors have become interested and are doing excellent work.

It is interesting to note the earnestness of some of the boys and girls in one school where the pupils were knitting blocks for an ambulance robe one little fellow who couldn't buy knitting needles, made some of an old umbrella ribs and one little girl made hers out of all day sucker sticks.

A large majority of these children are cultivating gardens, buying thrift stamps and doing their best to help
