Sharp rise in wages, taxes and materials forces us to ask for telephone rate increases

Only 50 cents a month for most residence customers—less than 2 cents a day

NOTHING is more important in a time of national emergency than a strong telephone company. The service must be fast, accurate and dependable. Yet it costs far more today to provide good telephone service than it has ever cost before. Unlike most other businesses we cannot raise prices immediately to offset each rise in our costs. The telephone business is regulated and the prices we charge have lagged behind. But starting last June we have been hit by one wave of higher costs after another, until we must ask the Public Service Commission for an adjustment in telephone rates.

Here is the situation we face:

TO PAY HIGHER WAGES—negotiated last fall—we will need $18,000,000 a year in new revenues. And this may be as much as $24,000,000.

TO PAY HIGHER TAXES—already imposed—we will need $17,000,000 more each year.

MATERIAL AND SUPPLY COSTS ARE HIGHER.

TELEPHONE RATES FIXED LAST MAY were many millions of dollars short of what we badly needed. Today it is certain that these rates are far short of what we now need to meet higher prices.

There is no getting away from the simple fact that higher costs mean higher prices.

We are therefore asking for an increase in rates to add 8% to our revenues.

Small increase to average user

To most residence customers, the increase will amount to only 50¢ a month—less than 2¢ a day. For rural residence customers, the increase will amount to 75¢ a month.

People who use business service would pay somewhat more, depending on the kind and amount of service used.

High value—low cost

Telephone service would still be a bargain! Including this change, the over-all cost would be up an average of only 19% since 1939—far less than the 75% increase in consumers' prices.

In the last five years your telephone has increased greatly in value. You can reach more people because we have installed 2,000,000 more telephones in this state. The quality of service has been greatly improved, too.

A big job ahead

The telephone company's program of improvement and expansion is a big and an expensive one. It has totalled $780,000,000 since 1945. At today's higher prices, the construction work planned for 1951 will cost at least $12,000,000 more than it would have cost at June, 1950 prices.

This program is now more important than ever before. When the nation is busy preparing for defense we must be ready to meet every essential need... and there is still a tremendous job of building ahead.

To finance this new construction we must continue to raise many millions of dollars of new capital. And, if we are to get this money, thousands of people must be willing to invest their savings in the telephone business.

That is why it is so important that your telephone company remain financially strong. Only a strong company can provide the service that New York State must have in these critical times.
