HUB OF INVESTMENT COMPANIES Million-Dollar-A-Day Operation Builds Investors Diversified

THE HUB of the investment company business in America is not as you might expect—on Wall Street in New York, but at Seventh and Marquette, right here in Minneapolis.

Investors Diversified Services, Inc., the parent company of the Investors group, includes the largest face-amount certificate business in America and the second largest mutual investment company. The firm, organized as Investors Syndicate in 1894, today brings a wide variety of financial operations to Minneapolis.

The Investors' mortgage department is the country's sixth largest source of mortgage money, having provided initial financing for two out of every 100 homes started in the United States during 1950. The scope and variety of the group's activities are reflected in the size of its business in securities, of which sales and purchases average more than a million dollars each business day.

Investors Diversified Services, of which E. E. Crabb is board chairman and president, occupies some 110,000 square feet of office space. Two entire floors in the Roanoke Building are used exclusively by Investors and practically two others in the Baker Arcade. The entire main floor of the WCCO Building is used by the company to house its mortgage business headquarters.

In the home office there are 887 salaried employees with annual salaries aggregating more than $3.5 million yearly. Total payroll amounts to about $12 million a year for the entire force of more than 2,600, including sales representatives, managers and salaried personnel.

Investors' total assets now exceed $788 million and the company's investment and mortgage facilities are being used by 570,000 customers through 160 offices in leading cities of the United States and Canada.

Investors Syndicate's real growth did not begin until about 1925. Total assets at that time amounted to about $12.5 million.

Investors receive funds from its customers from all over the United States and Canada and it invests these funds through operations which cover a broad field in the world of finance. Wide-spread diversification is carried out, not only with respect to individual corporations and industry groups, but also geographically.

Investors "new money" cash inflow to Minneapolis during 1950 amounted to more than $225 million compared with $182 million in 1949. Of the 1950 amount, about $67 million was from certificates; about $77 million from the sale of investment company shares; and about $81 million from mortgage payments.

In contrast with the "new money" coming in, the overall cash receipts in the home office in Minneapolis were more than $56 million during 1950 compared with about $413 in 1949.

Investors Diversified Services, Inc. has one of its Divisional Offices located in Potsdam at 15 Market Street. Edward J. Fay, Divisional Manager.
