Sonderman, Joy Receive Awards

Two alumni of Clarkson College have been awarded Golden Knight Trophies for distinguished service to their college, their communities and their professions.

The trophies were awarded Saturday during the banquet for the 49th annual mid-winter meeting of the Clarkson Tech Alumni Association at the Hotel Van Curler in Schenectady.

Recipients were Clarke H. Joy '29, Bay Village, Ohio; and Gerhard E. Sonderman '25, Greenwich, Conn.

Joy is president of the Clarke H. Joy Company, manufacturers of instruments and automation panel boards and allied equipment. He was president of the Clarkson alumni group from 1944-48, and received an honorary degree of doctor of engineering from Clarkson in 1962.

He is a member of the college's Board of Trustees and a member of the visiting committee for the Industrial Distribution Department. He also is a director of Pyronics, Inc. and the Automatic Power Steer Corporation.

Sonderman, a consulting engineer, also has an honorary degree of doctor of engineering which he received from Clarkson in 1961. He has been active in the New York Section of the alumni association, and now is serving for the second time as an alumni term trustee. He was a partner in Singmaster and Breyer, metallurgists and chemical engineers, from 1942-61, and specialized in sea water conversion while with that firm.
