

St. Lawrence Central has Remedial Reading, Other Programs

The summer reading program now underway at St. Lawrence Central School in Brasher Falls will have some of the most far-reaching effects ever experienced by its school system.

What is your first impression upon hearing that a reading program is being carried out there? Probably you think that its sole purpose is to help students who falter over the written word.

To tell in a short space what it is all about will not be easy, for its set-up, its long-range views, and its advantages to teachers as well as students are vastly scattered.

The primary purpose of this program is, of course, to give remedial and corrective instruction to children. But, in doing so it paves the way for the initiative to learn more in other areas, to help oneself, and to overcome the complexities often associated with the awareness of difficult learning.

10 Grades
Students in grades two through 11 are taking advantage of this program. Nineteen teachers under the supervision of Mrs. Gwenn Chaffee, assistant to Elementary School Principal, James E. Giles, make up the faculty.

The course, to run six weeks, already shows some gratifying results.

During the school year the children have been tested and screened. When they attend summer school they are not placed in the grades they were in during the regular school season. Instead, they are grouped according to their individual needs, and often these children will advance rapidly to other groups. They are not held back once they have overcome whatever difficulty obstructed their learning.

205 children from St. Lawrence Central and St. Patrick's Schools are enrolled this year. There is a library where children are encouraged to browse through and select books suitable to their reading needs.

An art class helps them to express themselves, and the lunch served before they leave for home is a happy climax to the pleasant, relaxed periods of developing their dormant abilities.

At SUCP
Under the same program 23 children are enrolled in the speech and reading clinic at Potsdam State University. Here severe problems in reading and speech are helped or corrected.

26 Junior High and High School students attend Spanish and French enrichment programs at St. Lawrence University in Canton.

Schuyler Alverson, head of the St. Lawrence Central School's Science department, with assistant director, John Cardinal, conduct a science workshop for faculty members, which 12 teachers attend. The purpose of this workshop is to update and coordinate the science program for grades kindergarten through 12. This is also a six-week course.

Headstart
Operation Headstart has a present enrollment of 32 pre-kindergarten children. Under the Office of Economic Opportunity, federal aid to SLC for this project is $6,488, and non-federal, $820.

There are three volunteers, four professionals, and four residents with two classes held daily.

These children learn a great deal in how to adjust to school life, socially, as well as in meeting changes from home freedoms to school demands. Classes are held under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Singleton and Mrs. Norma Horan.

In conjunction with this whole school program the Brasher-Winthrop Recreation Association operates a summer recreation program. There is baseball and girls' softball.

Candidates greet GOPs at Picnic

St. Lawrence Valley Women's Republican Club held its second annual picnic at the St. Lawrence River camp of Lisbon Supervisor Willard Green on Monday night. Over 50 members and 25 guests attended. The picnic featured a covered dish supper and a meeting of Republican candidates for November election.

Mrs. Beverly McDonough, President of the club, introduced Henry Howard, Republican County Chairman, who in turn introduced the candidates. Ogdensburg Mayor Ed Keenan, candidate for Assembly, expressed his appreciation for the pledge of support from his Primary opposition Maynard Miller. Mayor Keenan said that Republicans, through hard work and cooperation, could elect their whole slate in November.

District Attorney Follett, candidate for Family Court Judge, stressed the need for cooperative effort in solving Family Court problems. He said, "One man cannot be master of the many professions which need to be called upon to develop solutions in Family Court cases. Experts trained in psychology, sociology, psychiatry, religion, education and domestic relations, can all contribute to the knowledge of the lawyer in arriving at the most satisfactory solution to complex family problems."

Commenting upon the recent Primary contest, Follett noted his appreciation for the assistance which he had received all over the County.

Lewis Paddock, County Clerk, candidate for re-election, commented upon the need for all Republicans to support Republican candidates. Sheriff Lefty Allen thanked his supporters and urged Republicans to work together in the coming election campaign.

Eight WSCS Ladies will go to Aldersgate

North Stockholm — Eight members of the North Stockholm Woman's Society of Christian Service indicated their intentions of attending Visitors Day at the WSCS School of Missions, Camp Aldersgate, Brantingham, next Thursday, when the group met in regular session at the Church Hall Monday evening.

With newly elected president, Mrs. Vivian Waite presiding, plans were also discussed for a Food Sale, to be held this Friday at Norwood, in the old A and P Store on the village's Main Street. The ladies plan to start selling food at 3 p.m., continuing into the early evening hours if necessary.

Tentative plans for Old Home Day, originally slated for Aug. 7, were outlined; and Mrs. Waite announced that the date is somewhat uncertain due to the plumbing work now being done; however, it is hoped that all commitments will be able to be met. Mrs. Martha Chase, in charge of the program, introduced a panel of ladies who discussed the church's ecumenical movement and its far-reaching effects on local communities.

Mrs. Gwen Jones was hostess, serving refreshments after the business meeting.

Attending Camp Aldersgate will be Mrs. Waite, Mrs. Chase, Mrs. Betty Cheney, Mrs. Shelia Cheney, Mrs. Eva Dean, Mrs. Thana Allen, Mrs. Gwen Jones, and Mrs. Winnie Hicks. If anyone else is interested, they should contact Mrs. Chase at FL3-6820.
