

Couple weds in St. John's

Mary Jo Anne Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, Madrid, and Darrell W. Maloney, Ogdensburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Maloney, were united in marriage in St. John's Catholic Church, Madrid, on Saturday, August 7, 1976 with the Reverend Joseph G. Bailey officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length white gown in princess style, with three-quarter length sleeves, high neckline, and long train. She carried pink roses and white carnations.

Marilyn Mitchell was her sister's maid of honor. Her gown was a pink floor length princess style, with white lace. Her flowers were white carnations and red roses.

Debbie Rayburn and Coleen Gibbeault were bridesmaids. They wore floor length gowns of blue color. They carried a single carnation. They wore white floppy hats. Martha Mitchell, sister of the bride, and Peggy Maloney, sister of the groom, were flower girls. Their gowns were of beige with orange embroidery, and pink, respectively.

Harold Rayburn was the best man. Ushers were Milan Mitchell, brother of the bride, and Lynn Billing. The bride's mother and the groom's mother wore aqua colored gowns.

The bride, a graduate of Madrid-Waddington Central School, class of 1976, is employed by Sgt. John Phillips, US Customs, Ogdensburg, Maloney, a graduate of Lisbon Central School, class of 1973 is employed by St. Lawrence University, Canton.

ENGAGED—Mrs. Harold Holt has announced the engagement of her daughter, Lisa, to Kevin Patrick Lawless, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lawless of Poland, New York. The bride elect is also the daughter of the late Harold G. Holt. The affianced couple are both graduates of Norwood-Norfolk Central School. Lawless is employed at Massena Memorial Hospital. ## Correction

Because of an editorial error, the engagement announcement of Cecelia Marie Garceau to Stephen Derosia gave an incorrect wedding date in last week's edition of the Courier and Freeman.

The couple will be married on Saturday, August 21, not August 28 as was previously reported.

Your dental health

A dentist thinks of a tooth as a part of your body that should be kept intact because it has a function and is important. But sometimes, a tooth must be removed for the patient's general health.

Dentists extract teeth only as a last resort. They know that man has never been able to fabricate an artificial tooth that functions as well as a natural one.

When is a tooth so sick that it should be removed? Teeth may need extraction when they are so infected and diseased that endodontic or root canal treatment cannot save them, when the tooth's supporting tissues are extremely diseased, when teeth are unrepairable broken or when space is needed in the mouth to correct or prevent an orthodontic problem.

The most common extraction is that of the impacted wisdom teeth. These are the third molars that never fully erupted from the gums and that can cause infection and other problems. Many dentists believe the best time to have the wisdom teeth removed is between ages 17 and 20 because healing is swifter in this period. Other teeth that should be extracted are abscessed teeth that could spread infection to other parts of the mouth.

Should an orthodontic problem exist where a healthy tooth needs more growing space, a dentist or oral surgeon will sometimes remove an adjacent permanent tooth to relieve the problem.

The extraction of a tooth is surgery, even in the legal sense. It is done by family dentists and oral surgeons and, because it is surgery, some bleeding can always be expected. Modern dentistry assures that extractions are accompanied by a minimum of discomfort.

If a tooth is lost as a result of disease or accident, it should be replaced with an artificial one. This is important for protecting dental health, even when the tooth is in the back of the mouth where it may not normally be seen.

The efficient chewing of food is a very complex operation. It requires that your teeth be in correct position and that your upper and lower teeth come together properly. An uneven distribution of stress in chewing affects the periodontal and supporting tissues of the teeth—the bone and gums.

As a result the teeth can shift out of their proper position, allowing food to become caught or packed between them. This provides a good home for bacteria that help cause disease of the supporting tissues—periodontal disease.

A combination of all these factors—impacted food, bacteria, uneven stress—results in infection of the gums, damage to the bone around the teeth and decay of the other teeth involved.

If a child loses a primary tooth because of an accident or disease, the dentist may recommend a temporary space maintainer. Children need their teeth, just as adults do, for speaking and for appearance. But children have the additional need to keep their teeth for the proper development of the jaws. The primary teeth hold the space for the permanent teeth.

If a spacer maintainer is not inserted to replace missing teeth, over a period of time the teeth on either side tend to drift into the empty space. Then, when it is time for the permanent tooth to erupt, there is not sufficient space for it. Therefore, it comes in out of its proper position. This is one cause of malocclusion or "crooked teeth."

Prevention of malocclusion caused by too early loss of primary teeth is simple with a space maintainer. Cure, once the malocclusion has developed, may require long and complicated orthodontic treatment.
