

SEX EDUCATION WORKSHOP AT CLARKSON—Gary F. Kelly, director of the Student Development Center and coordinator of the Human Sexuality Program at Clarkson College talks with Dr. Patricia Schiller, a professor at Howard University and executive director of the American Association of Sex Educators, Counselors and Therapists. The meeting took place at the recent workshop for educators and counselors on "The New Sex Education." Held on the Clarkson campus, the workshop was co-sponsored by AAECT and American University in Washington, D.C. Mr. Kelly was the workshop's organizer and director. Thirty participants from six states attended the five-day workshop and explored group centered approaches for sex education and worked on preliminary curriculum development for their occupational settings.

KELVINATOR ENERGY SAVING APPLIANCES

Trimwall construction foamed-in-place insulation seals every corner to minimize cold loss

Magnetic Door Gaskets on all four sides to better seal in the cold

Moisture Guard Tube, a hot gas tube, keeps cabinet edges dry without adding the costly operation of electric heaters

Most models use a Natural Draft Condenser. This eliminates need for an additional electric fan.
