Study Reaffirms That Jail Could Be At County Home Site

CANTON- The State Facilities Development Corporation has reaffirmed its conclusion that the county home property is suitable for an entire jail facility, with the exception of a few departments.

The corporation responsed to a letter from Administrative Assistant William P. Collins requesting additional information regarding the possibile location of the entire jail at the county home site.

In its letter, which Collins released Monday the corporation recalls that the alternate site study, which it prepared last March, concluded that the home site "is suitable for the entire programmed jail facility with the exception of the Probation Department, a component of the Sheriff's Department, and Buildings and Grounds, all of which could remain in Canton.

"At this time we reaffirm this conclusion and also feel that the location of the jail on a portion of the county home site will demonstrate the feasibility of utilizing this site for other possible county building programs."

Construction cost for the jail at the county home site would be $2,674,500, according to the letter. However, it notes that the total net cost, based on a fall 1978 construction start is $2,381,400. But that amount will be upped to $2,619,540; with a fall 1979 construction start.

The corporation also estimates that it will cost the county $41,000 for a schematic design of the jail, the first stage in the design process.

Star Lake Housing Loan Is Approved

WASHINGTON- Senator Jacob Javits has announced that Farmers' Home Administration (FmHA) has loaned $114,000 to South St. Lawrence Planning Corp. of Star Lake for construction of housing for the elderly.

The rural rental housing would include 16 one-bedroom units and a community building.

The loan has a 50-year term repayable at 8.5 percent.

"This is one of the senator's pet projects," said a spokesman in his office.
