Police Beef Up Halloween Patrols

Potsdam Police beefed up night patrols this Halloween, traditionally a time of year when "ghosts and goblins" do more than just spook the town.

But officers reported this year's celebration to be relatively quiet.

Lt. Dale Wells said Monday that seven policemen were on duty from 8 p.m. Saturday to midnight, and six were on from midnight to 3 a.m. Sunday. That means there were two extra from 8 to midnight and three extra from midnight to 3 a.m., he explained.

Auto Deaths Down In County: Statistics

CANTON — St. Lawrence County was one of 23 counties in New York State to have had fewer vehicle-related deaths in 1980 than in 1979, according to a recent book of vehicle statistics released by the state department of motor vehicles.

According to the data book, St. Lawrence County reported 26 fatal accidents in 1980 compared to 31 the year before. Overall, the county had 30 deaths related to motor vehicle accidents, five of those were pedestrians, two motocyclists and one bicyclist. This compares to 33 overall in 1979.

Potsdam Man Faces Charge Of DWI

NORFOLK — A 27-year-old Potsdam man was arrested for felonious driving while intoxicated and two other charges last Tuesday night after he was intercepted by two St. Lawrence County Sheriff's patrols.

Bruce White, Route 2, was charged shortly before 9 p.m. Tuesday, after deputies observed him driving at a high rate of speed and passing another vehicle on a hill in a no passing zone on Rt. 56.

Deputies said they immediately tried to stop White, but he failed to comply. A second patrol car aided in stopping him in Raymondville.

White is charged with felonious driving while intoxicated, passing in a no passing zone and speeding. He is to appear in Norfolk Town Court at a later date, according to police.

Police Shut Beer Blast Down

A collegiate beer blast at 88 Market Street had to be shut down Saturday afternoon after a neighbor complained of noise from the band, according to village police.

Police said that they ordered Theta Xi, a Clarkson fraternity, to end the party at 4:50 p.m. after receiving a second complaint about noise. An earlier complaint came from the same neighbor at 4:30 p.m., police reports show.

Police said Patrolman Richard Cudlipp issued a warning to fraternity officers Eric Green and Thomas Foley after the first noise complaint.

But police received another call shortly thereafter, saying that the band, "Windcastle," had resumed the former volume.

Because of residents' objections to noise and drunken behavior following them, the collegiate fund-raisers have been an issue for several years in Potsdam, and last year the village board tried to outlaw the blasts. But that law was struck down in State Supreme Court because it was improperly enacted.

However, fraternity and sorority members have sought to keep a tighter rein on the events, and have adopted guidelines limiting the parties to one per week, with the beer taps to stop flowing at 4 p.m., although the band may play until 5.

Charles A. Alexander, 21, Canton, was charged early Sunday morning with driving while intoxicated and driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

Village police made three arrests on open container charges Saturday and four more on Sunday. Charged Saturday were: Gregory A. Calderia, 19, Syracuse; Christopher J. Orl, 20, Syracuse; and Jeffrey M. Wilkins. Arrested early Sunday morning were: Thomas Walsh, 21, 25 Leroy St.; Bridget A. Heaney, 19, Tonawanda; Margaret A. Donohue, 20, South Glens Falls; Kenneth M. Gumpert, 18, Rocky Point.

Dennis A. Misterman, 19, Menands, N.Y., was charged Saturday with driving while intoxicated, driving without a license, moving unsafely from a lane, and an open container violation.

James C. Santoro, 22, Manhasset, was ticketed Saturday for driving with an obstructed view.

Charles L. Dumas, 27, Norfolk, was arrested Saturday on a bench warrant issued by village justice Leon Penell, charging him with issuing a bad check.

Eric A. Green, 21, Greene, Me., was ticketed Saturday on a charge of failure to turn as required.

Two Clarkson students, Todd A. Willoughby, 18, Woodstock, Conn., and Steven W. David, 17, Albany, were both charged early Thursday morning with petit larceny in connection with an alleged shoplifting incident at the Kwik Stop store, Maple St.

Eilene A. Brennan, 19, Auburn, and Steven G. Gleason, 22, Palmyra, were each charged early Friday morning with separate open container violations.

Thomas A. Kinsman, 21, Hornell, and Frederick P. Goebel, 22, North Brunswick, were both charged Thursday night with trespass. Police alleged they were on the roof of a building at 53 Market Street.

Peter Burns, 49, Cornwall, Ont., was ticketed Thursday on a charge of failure to turn as required.

Daniel J. Bercume, 18, Norwood, was charged Thursday with disorderly conduct.

Village police arrested five persons on petit larceny charges last Tuesday, four of them involving alleged shoplifting incidents at the Ames-Big N department store. Charged were: Gerard A. Quinn Jr., 17, Moriches, N.Y.; Jeanna S. Veros, 22, Malverne, L.I.; Robert A. Dobson, 20, Montour Falls; Carol A. Hart, 20, 37 Cherry St.; and Robert W. Besaw, 17, 3 Hamilton St.

CORRECTION

In a Public Record item in last week's issue, the Courier incorrectly reported that Merideth D. Luce was arrested at the home of James Emerson, 37 Pine St. on Oct. 25. In fact, Luce was arrested at his own house, 31-½ Pine St., and charged with second degree reckless endangerment. He was later released on $500 bail.
