

Patchwork: West Potsdam Area News

BY MARY ANN MILLER

Thursday afternoon, Nov. 5, 1981: a day to remember. We broke the 60 degree mark on the thermometer and the sunshine was perfect. Sitting on my back porch, barefoot in short sleeves and shorts, the sunshine beat down as I heard Wayne Phillips calling the cows, dead leaves rustling on a nearby poplar tree and an occasional car. All those who hurried South eat your hearts out: you missed the day in November that shall be remembered.

Halloween is over. The young ones in this area met at the Methodist Church at 5 p.m. all dressed and ready to trick or treat. Drivers Cindy Barnes, Twila Hayes, Rosemary Sanford, and I filled the cars and each took a different route in the area. Each car had a container to collect for UNICEF and, of course each child had a bag for the goodies. Rosemary and I both noticed the one thing that was really different this year — the faces on the carved pumpkins were the best we ever saw. They were done by people full of imagination; one was done completely upside down.

Weldon and Shirley Lumley had a huge pumpkin by their doorstep and as Weldon said, "It got here in a wheelbarrow." This year, pumpkins were as interesting as some of the costumes we saw. (Oh, Chris Bates, your cape is in the back of my car if you're looking for it.)

After the trick or treating, everyone gathered at Ardis Barnes home for cider and goodies.

I heard that Tom and Martha Logan held a Halloween party for some invited little ones. Even had a pinata.

Dorothy Evans is doing well after her surgery at Upstate. She must return in another week for a check-up and that will be a long trip for her.

The elections are over — I'm certain the candidates are happy about that fact. In this area, we congratulate Rosemary Sanford on her re-election as county legislator.

Meanwhile, I just tried to call her as she will get the 4-H club started soon. Since she's not home, we'll have to wait for next week to inform all of the first meeting.

Roger Huntley has been in the Potsdam Hospital recovering from an accident on the farm. A tractor rolled backward and he has a broken leg. By the time this is read, Roger should be home.

Gary Reed celebrated his happy birthday Nov. 3. He had a surprise when a carload of friends arrived after school bearing gifts. His mom, May, made up a great spaghetti dinner and all had a good time.

The work continues on the bridge in Slab City. The further it progresses the more everyone wonders about what they are really building. At this time it appears traffic will drive into Clyde Layaw's front porch. The Layaw's must be concerned — they'll have no yard in front left at this rate.

The ladies auxiliary will hold their regular meeting Nov. 11 at the fire station at 8 p.m. Meeting night was changed due to elections that evening.

The firemen held their regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the fire station. There were 24 members present and no non-members. Chores to prepare for winter were discussed.

The men will host the November meeting of the St. Lawrence County Fire Chiefs at the hall Nov. 19. The auxiliary will prepare the meal. Dick Grant, Bill Grant, Bob DeLair and Lee Pierce have finished the roof on the new addition at the hall and installed the door. A bullhead dinner was discussed and planned for early spring or maybe even February.

Down at the store, I found out who it is that comes in to buy his paper every day and is also the same man who will age your deer for you. He's Mike Perry and he works for the Conservation Department.

Ardie can get you all the details if you have been a lucky hunter and brought home a deer. Also found out that Stretch and Mary Berger will be celebrating an anniversary Nov. 12. And Warren Raven was there. He's the Frito Lay deliveryman and was busy counting bags of potato chips.

Ardie was bursting with joy about her last fowling scores. When she said she bowled a 179, Warren said, "Gee, all in one game!" Seems Warren has joined the Sunday Night League at Waddington and claims to have the lowest average in the league.

Also discovered that Cindy and David Sullivan of Canton have purchased Margaret LaBarge's home. And then there was Tom Hall, he's not happy as his chickens aren't laying yet. Had to buy six eggs!

I attended the regular monthly meeting of the Potsdam Zonta Club Thursday evening. The speaker was Rosemary Kriescher. She spoke of her four years living on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota. The reservation is located in the foothills of the Blackhills and the Badlands.

The Sioux Indian, she said, has a lovely and basic religion. They describe poverty for instance as loss of self respect. "They are a people who live to possess themselves and not material goods. They believe there is nothing wrong in getting rich. It is only wrong to keep them" she said.

NEWSBRIEF

ALBANY — New York State Police Superintendent William G. Connelie has announced that George L. Jaques of Ray Brook Headquarters of Troop B is one of 19 new investigators in the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, effective Nov. 5.

She went into some details of the battle at Wounded Knee and then into many of her experiences while living there. At this time she is busy collecting good warm winter clothing to ship out there.

The business part of the meeting was conducted by Grace Jenack. Lois Aidous (delegate), Ruth Peterson (alternate) and Millie Post reported on their representing the Potsdam Zonta at the annual Zonta District 2
